ACTION ITEMS

After a stressful protest, a narrow escape, or a daring action, you'll have some emotions to unpack. Being attacked by police is traumatic; talk to your protest partner and affinity group. Help each other process. Doing so will make you more effective in the long run.

As advertised: unsolicited advice

- Spend time with people outside of the context of actions
- Take breaks
- Quest Center is offering free mental health services & acupuncture for BIPOC protestors (as of June 19, 2020) quest-center.org
- Rosehip Medic Collective has a collection of local resources at rosehipmedics.org/links-and-resources/local-community-resources

Bloc curious? For a lot more info on how to do bloc right, check out the zine "Bloc, Black and Otherwise" (see citations)

BLOC

- Cover face and hair
- Cover tattoos and piercings
- Carry a black bag

TIPS

- Use black tape to cover visible logos
- No plain black shirt? Turn one inside out
- Try a t-shirt balaclava (but wear a mask underneath to protect against COVID-19)
- Change up your bloc often - including bag

DEBLOC

Wearing bloc in transit makes you a target.

Find a safe place w/out cameras to bloc up and debloc!

- Colorful mask & shirt (aim for irony)
- Stow all gear
- Don't bring anything you're not willing to lose

History & Purpose

Black bloc originated in the Autonomist movement in West Berlin from 1980-81 when, facing a housing crisis thousands of people squatted in abandoned buildings.²

Over the next decade, bloc became common in Germany and then spread to the rest of the world.

Blocs are known for employing a diversity of tactics including resisting police dispersal and property damage.⁶

Berlin 1988: 80,000 protesters, 8,000 black bloc, disrupt IMF/WB congress.³

Seattle 1999: anti WTO protests mark first large black bloc in North America; national media attention!¹⁰

Black blocs are most often utilized to combat surveillance technology.⁴ It's often associated with anti-capitalist, anti-imperialist, anarchist movements—but since its popularization it has been used by diverse movements including Hong Kong pro-democracy protesters.⁵

DOS AND DON'TS

DO introduce yourself with your real name Hi, I'm [REDACTED]	DO come up with an easy to hear nickname to use in bloc. ¹¹ Howdy- I'm FNAF
DO spread accurate information on your social media 2NITE: WU 7:00 PM VQA	DON'T post pics or videos of protests (best case: disrespectful/worst dangerous) VQA	DON'T talk to your non-protesting friends and families about specific protest activities VQA
DON'T bring your phone to protests—or at least turn off face/fingerprint unlocking VQA	DO write the National Lawyers Guild PDX jail line on your body before you head out 971-247-1012 con 8/1/20
DO talk to friends & family about abolition, protests, racism... VQA	DO have a protest buddy VQA	DO establish clearly defined limits with them: are you comfortable defying lawful orders? Being tear gassed? Getting arrested? VQA
DON'T livestream protestors' actions or faces. PPB uses streams for intel. VQA	DO point your phone at the cops. Consider delaying your stream by ~30 min to complicate their response. VQA
DON'T TALK TO COPS: an illustrated guide VQA	I would like a lawyer. I am invoking my right to remain silent. VQA

	VQA

During a dispersal, it's easy to panic.

Don't panic.

Running is a natural response to dispersal, but it leaves people behind and can lead to trampling.

It's important to keep in touch with your affinity group and protest buddies.

For all these reasons:

Walk don't run¹⁸

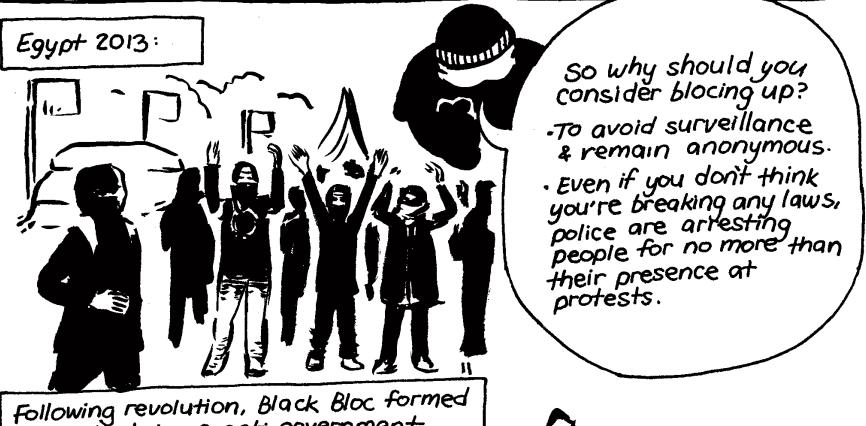

(and don't turn your back on the riot cops)

Walk don't run
